

Artist	Pieces Of Juno
Title	Tacenda
Label	Koso
Date	29th September 2017

We are proud to announce the release of Pieces of Juno's "Tacenda", out on KOSO Records September the 29th.

Tacenda is part two in a larger, conceptual piece written, produced and mixed by Pieces of Juno. The album was recorded in a studio garage in Oslo, in a marble house on the White Coast in Spain, in a former church-turned-studio in a small village in Sweden and a glass castle in the Hollywood Hills in Los Angeles.

Pieces of Juno is known for her distinct dark and cinematic combination of electronic and acoustic sounds. Curious about electronic music production, she merged her roots as a singer-songwriter with a strong fascination for film, creating her own genre-bending sound; Northern Noir. After self-releasing the debut EP "Ghostwriting" in 2013, an experimental and instrumental take on club music, music journalists quickly picked up on the audio-visual track "Saffron", proclaiming "as a debut calling card, it's frighteningly brilliant" (A. Hannah, Jajaja). Since then she has completed an instrumental EP trilogy with EP Frisson (2016) as the final piece. In 2015 she released an AA-single "Silver & Gold / Want It All (2015), combined her production skills with her singer/songwriter abilities, and this was the first glimpse of what was to come on the awaited debut album "Kalopsia". Silver & Gold was featured in the Norwegian success series Skam season 3.

"We don't know a lot about the mysterious Pieces of Juno yet but in this case, mystery is all the more tantalizing"
Noisey VICE on single Silver & Gold

"Pieces of Juno has been steadily winning over ears and hearts with each release, remix, production or whatever it is she's turned her creative hand to" Jajaja

"It's hard not to become immersed in this invitingly dark world of Nordic noir" The Line of Best Fit
